TO STOP HARMING ENVIRONMENT BY THEIR ACTIVITIES"
ORGANIZED BY THE DEPARTMENT OF F.E.D., RK COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

ABOUT THE RESOURCE PERSON

Presently working in T.K.R College of Engineering and Technology as Assistant Professor in Humanities and Science Department (Chemistry). Having two years of teaching experience in various institutions.

About "GETTING AWARENESS TO EVERY INDIVIDUAL TO STOP HARMING ENVIRONMENT BY THEIR ACTIVITIES":

Increasing economic activities in developing countries result in more energy and consumption demand, which generally lead to environmental degradation. There is a conventional belief that such environmental degradation would resolve as soon as these countries grow economically since that would enable them to afford environmental friendly technology as well as pro-environmental regulations and policies.¹ However, several studies indicated that many developing countries already equipped with environmental policies, legal frameworks and economic instruments, which are regarded as highly sophisticated by international standards (Huber et al, 1998, Fujisaki et al, 1997) and yet face the worsening of environmental conditions. Major difficulties these countries confront are not only the lack of legal and economic framework for environmental protection, but also lack of participation among general public in pro-environmental behaviours.² Moreover, there are increasing needs for such public participation due to the recent change in sources of environmental problems. Today, the sources of pollution have shifted from production to consumption processes. The Human Development Report of 1998.

(UNDP) affirms this trend and states that growth in consumption and unbalanced consumption patterns are placing unprecedented pressure on the environment. In this light, the acceptance of pro-environmental behaviour by general public, that is, to adopt sustainable life style, is an urgent issue in protecting environment. The participation of citizen can complement existent legal and economic instruments, which are facing shortage of institutional, managerial and financial capabilities for enforcement...

One must first understand what the term environmentalism and environmental awareness means. According to Pachamama Alliance, "Environmentalism is an ideology that evokes the necessity and responsibility of humans to respect, protect, and preserve the natural world from its anthropogenic afflictions" and "environmental awareness is to understand the fragility of our environment and the importance of its protection." It further states that "promoting environmental awareness is an easy way to become an environmental steward and participate in creating a brighter future for our children. By teaching our friends and family that the physical environment is fragile and indispensable we can begin fixing the problems that threaten it."

I feel that environmental awareness makes us realize the pressing need to take immediate action to stop harming the environment and start restoring the damage we have done to it. Unless there is awareness, there is no action – or at least no proper action. And this action must start from the individual level and spread through the people and organizations we know. Once we have a thorough understanding of the environmental issues such as deforestation, environmental pollution, water crisis, global warming and climate change, loss of biodiversity etc. every one of our actions will come out of a place of concern for our surroundings, out of love for mother nature, out of the willingness to contribute towards sustainable development and make a positive change in the world.
